

“You will notice that the officials for today’s game are wearing either pink or white whistles. This is part of a week-long, nationwide effort –“Officials versus Cancer” Campaign designed to raise the awareness of cancer. If you haven’t been touched by cancer, chances are you will be someday, either personally or through a loved one, friend, or a colleague who might catch this deadly disease.

On behalf of those affected by this, the American Cancer Society, Officials vs. Cancer, the Colorado high school basketball officials association, Colorado Board #4, and all officials from around the country we would like to thank everyone for joining in this fight against cancer!

Those wishing to make a contribution can contact your local American Cancer Society office, your local Colorado high school basketball association chapter at www.denverbasketballofficials.com, or any Denver area official.

Thank you!”
